The Plein Air Painters of the Jersey Coast (PAPJC) is comprised of artists who have chosen to explore the beauty of the Central New Jersey coastal area “en plein air,” a term used to describe paintings executed outdoors. The group formed in the spring of 2003 and its membership and following continue to grow. The group meets every week throughout the year in all but the worst weather. In addition to its weekly painting schedule, the PAPJC has participated in paint-outs and has been invited to paint locally at community and business events in many shore area towns.

The PAPJC has been recognized in national publications for its outstanding work benefiting the community through art. It recently developed a program whose main objective is to contribute to a major healthcare facility in our community. This year’s event will be presented at the Riverview Medical Center to benefit the Jane H. and John Marshall Booker Center.

"Jersey Shore" by Timothy Thies

This summer our program has taken us to one of the premier locations on the Navesink River. The Riverview Medical Center has opened its doors for a unique, invitation-only cocktail reception and art exhibit. As you journey through the exhibit, you will recognize the river and its surrounding towns. Watercolorists and pastellists, oil and acrylic painters reveal the world as they experience it, bringing to life this paradise we live in.

The painters whose works will be displayed are among the finest in the region and many have been nationally recognized. Their works grace the homes and businesses of many art lovers throughout the country. For more information about future events, exhibitions and painting locations, as well as how to join the organization, go to www.thepapjc.com. The group is a not-for-profit, registered LLC.
